Welcome to our 19th annual Guide to Jewish Life in North Texas. As I am putting this year's edition to bed, I am struck by the breadth of opportunities for Jews in the North Texas area and the diligence with which our local organizations and synagogues work to enhance Jewish life. There is no doubt our community is thriving. We have added many more listings this year than we have had to subtract.

It has been a difficult year for Jews around the world and especially in Israel. We watched in horror the Hamas terrorist attack Oct. 7, 2023, on our fellow Jews in Israel. More than 1,200 Israelis and others were murdered and 251 men, women and children were abducted and taken to Gaza; tens of thousands were wounded. We were hopeful when dozens were released during a hostage/prisoner exchange in November.

Currently, 120 abductees are still being held in the Gaza Strip including five U.S. citizens (102 men, 16 women and two babies). This includes four abductees held by Hamas prior to Oct. 7, according to the Israel Consulate. At least 43 of the abductees are no longer alive and their bodies are being held by Hamas (including the bodies of Hadar Goldin and Oren Shaul). One person remains missing.

As with Jews everywhere, the war in Israel has hit close to home for our community members. Binyamin Airley, z"l, was killed in action in Gaza on Nov. 18. He was the grandson of Julie Wolk, a teacher at Akiba Yavneh Academy and wife of Rabbi Howard Wolk, community chaplain of Jewish Family Service of Greater Dallas. On March 17, we learned that Israel Defense Forces tank commander Daniel Perez, cousin of Hylton and Veronique Jonas and family, was killed on Oct. 7. Like many family and friends of those who are still being held captive in Gaza, the Jonases' daughter Colette Lipszyc and Pam Goldminz coordinate weekly "Run for their Lives" walks to keep the hostages top of mind. Those take place every Sunday at 9 a.m. at Frankford Park, 18400 Hillcrest, in North Dallas. Meanwhile, Dallasite LeElle Slifer still advocates for the release of her cousin, Carmel Gat, who was abducted from Kibbutz Be'eri.

"Bring Them Home Now!"

Many North Texans, including me, have family who have made aliyah and are serving active duty in the IDF or as milluim, reservists. The local Federations, Friends of the IDF, Jewish National Fund, United Hatzalah, Dallas Stands with Israel and others have worked to raise funds and awareness for the release of the hostages and for the people of Israel. In February, the Dallas Federation announced that Dallas is partnering with Kibbutz Zikim and the surrounding area to help rebuild from the devastation of Oct. 7.

Since Oct. 7, we have seen the rise of virulent antisemitism across the globe and in particular on American college campuses. At UT-Austin, UT-Arlington, UT-Dallas and University of North Texas, anti-Israel sentiment has resulted in encampments and violent protests. Many Jewish students feel threatened. The ADL; AJC, Hillels; Jewish Family Services; Jewish Federations; StandWithUs; The Texas Holocaust, Genocide, and Antisemitism Advisory Commission; and many others have worked tirelessly to support students on campus.

By Sharon Wisch-Ray
Publisher & Editor

The North Texas Jewish community has rallied around Israel as well as Jewish students on campus. Within days of Oct. 7, truckloads of donations were collected and shipped to Israel. Others have made many trips to Israel with supplies in tow. North Texans who have made Israel their home are feeding soldiers, offering moral support and respite and collecting items the soldiers need for their day-to-day life. In February, the Dallas Federation coordinated a community solidarity mission to Israel. Forty-eight people participated and saw firsthand the fallout from the attack and the will of Israelis to survive and to be hopeful. It was a powerful experience that I will never forget.

Security is a top priority for both Jewish Federations in North Texas and they are coordinating their efforts.

You will find the organizations mentioned above and a host of others in the Guide.

I hope the Guide will be an indispensable resource for you in the coming year. Of course, the best way to stay connected is to subscribe to the TJP. If you are not a current subscriber and would like to check out the TJP, give us a call at 972-458-7283 or visit tjpnnews.com/ subscribe. Since Oct. 7, we have introduced a weekday newsletter recapping stories of the day from Israel and around the Jewish world. To subscribe to the newsletter, visit tjpnnews.com/newsletter.

I want to add a note of special thanks to the entire TJP staff. The Guide is a true collaborative effort of all TJP departments, and everyone has done a wonderful job. Finally, thank you to our loyal advertisers. In these challenging times, please consider patronizing the businesses that support the Jewish community.

Learning at Temple Shalom encourages wonder, joy and the exploration of Jewish tradition to create holy community, meaning and memories throughout a lifelong journey. Focused on our core values of joy, wonder, friendship and holy community, we believe these values can open up our minds to the BIG questions of life. It is our deeply held belief that as Jews we are inheritors of a rich tradition that includes cultivating the practice of asking and answering questions to enable each of us to create personal meaning.

Your Jewish Journey Begins Here | A Community, A Family, A Place to Belong

Prayer: Currently our services are being held in-person and online via tedallas.org/livestream. Shabbat evening services are held at 6:15 p.m. most Fridays and Shabbat morning services are at 10:30 a.m. on Saturdays. A morning minyan is held Sunday-Friday at 8:15 a.m. on Zoom.

Learning and Spirituality: Temple offers a rich variety of learning opportunities for children and adults, including Torah, Talmud, yoga and music. Renowned Jewish scholars visit regularly and teach on important issues of the day.

Social Justice: Temple has been a force for change in Dallas and beyond since its inception. Today we have ongoing partnerships with the Vickery Meadow neighborhood and other Dallas-area nonprofits. We are involved in advocacy work with local partners and the Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism. A robust community garden provides fresh produce to Vickery Meadow.

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion: Temple

Emanu-El is committed to being an inclusive congregation. Ongoing work is occurring to explore new ways of thinking about race, privilege and power; providing equal opportunities for all and making sure that all members of our community feel welcomed and have a sense of belonging.

Interfaith: Temple Emanu-El welcomes interfaith couples, families and children of intermarriage. Educational, social and small group experiences help cultivate a positive connection to Jewish life. Our Jewish and You: Classes for the Curious is for anyone interested in learning more about Judaism or considering conversion. Our clergy work with interfaith couples and families on lifecycle events.

Small Groups: Sh'ma Emanu-El, our small group program, deepens connections among congregants and allow participants to share Jewish experiences, conversations and celebrations that motivate them to live meaningful Jewish lives.

Accessibility: Temple Emanu-El is committed to ensuring access for all, including individuals with disabilities. We are actively working to add more accommodations and supports to improve engagement for all Temple members.
